WinRescue 7 V1.08.51 [32-Bit] Incl Serial (KaranPc)5-Star Offensive Guard Brings a Different Kind of Clarity We're a team built to be tough, unrelenting and gritty," says Anthony Manchario. "So we are not scared of blood, sweat and tears." A three-time captain and one of the program's most decorated players, Manchario is among the most intimidating football players in the Big Ten Conference. He's 6'5", 335 pounds and has compiled more than 500 tackles and 46 tackles for loss in his career, including a team-high 39 against Wisconsin. Why does he want to continue to play football for Ohio State? "I love the program because of the culture they have built," he says. "It's a second family to me." Manchario signed to play football at Ohio State in 2012, transferring from Notre Dame. Coming from a football family, he grew up in Akron and played prep football for the Northcoast Firebirds and won a state championship with the Cleveland Browns. He was on the radar of many colleges, but Ohio State was the place where he wanted to play. "Everybody knew how good he is," says Ohio State Director of Player Personnel Brian Dennie. "He has a motor and a willingness to get dirty that makes him special." When Manchario began his third season with Ohio State in 2016, he says he felt a huge comfort level. As it turned out, the low point of the season came against Wisconsin. "I was having fun, trying to make stuff happen," he says. Manchario plays offensive guard for Ohio State. He made 11 starts at right tackle in 2016 and was a full- e79caf774b
